

Get Your Workplace Involved

Many companies offer their employees an opportunity to direct a portion of their paychecks to the charities of their choice through workplace giving.

You can ask your company if you can donate to Safe Call Now.

Safe Call Now provides life-saving services to first responders in crisis through the hard work of our volunteers and our dedicated supporters like you.

Safe Call Now was established in 2009 with the belief that no first responder, medical or emergency professional should have to face a crisis alone. Since that time, we have received tens of thousands of calls, assisting many in accessing the resources and services that they need to heal. We have trained tens of thousands of first responders and emergency personnel in 46 states and the District of Columbia. Our partnerships allow us to support first responders and medical professionals across the nation in learning about and accessing preventative wellness, crisis care, and wrap around supports.

Safe Call Now operates its confidential call line 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, every day of the year. Trained call takers, most of whom are current or former first responders, are there to assist and support first responders, emergency and medical personnel, and members of their families. These calls are always confidential: (206) 459-3020.
